Your cost of attendance is an estimate of your educational expenses for the year. This helps establish your financial need and allows you to calculate how much aid you should apply for to cover your expenses. The cost of attendance includes both billed (e.g. tuition and fees) and non-billed (e.g. transportation) costs. You may also need to budget for additional expenses such as off-campus housing and food. These items are not automatically charged but are factored into your overall cost of attendance.

Billed Costs: Items paid directly to UIW that may include tuition, fees, as well as housing and food for students who choose to live on campus.

Non-Billed Costs: Items not paid directly to UIW that may include transportation, personal expenses and off-campus housing and food.
